

REVELATION

Corner office feels so small today
Screens flash red but I can't look away
My empire crumbles, piece by piece
While sirens wail through empty streets

All my kingdoms turn to dust
Now I see what I should trust
Everything I built was sand
Father, please still take my hand

Stocks are falling, phones won't stop
Bodies missing from the top
All those meetings, endless pride
While truth was screaming deep inside

The signs were there
I chose to hide
Behind my walls of wealth and lies

All my kingdoms turn to dust
Now I see what I should trust
Everything I built was sand
Father, please still take my hand

I'm on my knees in this empty room
The end I feared is coming soon!!

WHERE ARE THEY NOW?
THE ONES WHO WARNED ME
I DISMISSED THEIR FAITH
NOW I UNDERSTAND
TOO LATE
BUT STILL I'M BREATHING
ONE LAST CHANCE TO CHANGE

All my kingdoms turn to dust
Finally I learn to trust
Though I built my life on sand
Father, You still hold my hand

Take everything I thought I owned
Just don't leave me here alone
I surrender all control
